

LEWIS HOWES

Lewis Howes, a previous two sport collegiate All-American, is also the NCAA All-Division Record Holder for the most receiving yards in a single football game (418 yards, currently an unofficial World Record).

As an athlete, Lewis was featured in Sports Illustrated and ESPN. Lewis graduated with a Sports Management degree from Principia College, and since his retirement from professional football, he continues to stay involved in the sports industry with his work through founding the Sports Executives Association and SportsNetworker.com. He also represents sports companies and professional athletes with social media marketing and branding.

Lewis, unlike many former athletes has successfully translated the mental and physical tools learned in sports to the business world. As well as Sports Networker, Lewis is the co-author of the LinkedIn success book, LinkedWorking: Generating Success on the World's Largest Professional Networking Website.

In addition to this book, Lewis helps professionals and companies achieve greater return on the time they devote to LinkedIn and other social networking through his acclaimed training seminars, one-on-one coaching sessions, and corporate consulting programs. He also creates opportunities for online connections to gather face-to-face through his live "LinkedWorking" events around the country.

ABOUT SPORTS NETWORKER

SportsNetworker is one of the top sites for professionals in the sports industry as well as those interested in starting a career in sports. The site reaches our network of roughly 20,000 sports executives and professional athletes that continues to grow everyday! We cover, Social Media and Sports, Sports Marketing, Sports Public Relations, Sports Sponsorships and Endorsements, Sports Agent topics, Ticket Sales and Venues, Professional Athlete Digital Branding and more.

We get insider information from the top athletes and executives to give you the most up to date and helpful information possible to help you along your career